State Income Tax Proposed With Repeal Of Sales Tax

Western Berlin Known As City With Big Heart

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin is a city with a heart as big as its troubles.

It has been seared in a hot war, chilled and immobilized in the cold war. But its people know only one creed when trouble strikes: Keep your chin up and help.

Thousands upon thousands of East German refugees know that now.

It may have been only days ago that some of these refugees were part of an anti-West demonstration in East Berlin, performing a dance of hate for their Russian bosses. Today they are fed, housed and advised by the West Berliners, who know hardship well.

Refugees Get Work

The East German Communists warn refugees that they are being lured to the West "so that your misery will be increased." Nothing could be farther from the truth. The Lorenz refugee camp in West Berlin is a good case in point. Lorenz had one of its biggest plants in Berlin during the war. It manufactured electrical equipment and still does.

The big complex of Lorenz buildings in West Berlin was battered by war, and up to a short time ago, was mostly empty. Then the Communists stepped up their terror campaign and East Germans began streaming west. In January alone, more than 25,000 sought safety in the West sectors of Berlin.

Farmers Advised Not To Depend On Federal Subsidies

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson is putting U. S. farmers on notice that they must depend more upon themselves than upon government subsidies in the future.

"Price supports should provide insurance against disaster," Benson said. "Those that encourage uneconomic production, resulting in continuing heavy surpluses and subsidies, should be avoided."

Addressing some 3,000 farmers of the Central Livestock Association here last night, Benson promised that farm support program would be carried out faithfully by the new administration. He said, "There will be no blanket promises to embark on actions which we have not the authority to invoke nor the means to implement."

"Inefficiency," he said, "should not be subsidized in agriculture or any other economy, and relief programs should be operated as such. Too many Americans are calling on Washington to do for them what they should be willing to do for themselves."

The secretary said that declining cattle prices had been in effect when he came into office in January. He called the situation an "unorderly and temporary adjustment" resulting from the big jump in numbers of cattle the past few years.

Benson said he would confer with dairymen next Tuesday relative to price support for butter. The present 90 per cent prop ends March 31.

Chiang Is Called Peace Obstacle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La) today urged the Eisenhower administration to consider asking the Chinese Nationalists to get rid of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek as their leader.

The Louisiana senator said the answer to the search for peace may well lie in "weaning the Chinese on the mainland away from Russia" and in finding a Chinese leader "more popular than Chiang," now head of the Nationalist government on Formosa.

Ellender deplored the idea of a blockade of the Red Chinese coast or other militant steps against the mainland lest they draw the Chinese "further away from us and closer to Russia."

Ellender voiced his views in an interview as Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) announced his Senate foreign relations subcommittee on Far Eastern policy will meet Friday for further questioning of Secretary of State Dulles.

It will be Dulles' second appearance before senators this week. He assured the foreign relations committee Monday, members said, that President Eisenhower's administration has no plan pending to blockade China, bomb Manchuria or use the atomic bomb in Korea.

Schoolboy, 13, Plays Role Of Eddie Cantor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The role of Eddie Cantor as a boy has been awarded to a Pasadena, Calif., high school boy, Richard Monda, 13.

The studio planning a Cantor film biography said Monda won in a nation-wide search in which more than 1,000 youths sought the part.

Milk, Eggs And Butter Marked For Decontrol

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Market basket items like milk, butter and eggs were marked for price decontrol this week amid signs that emergency power to restore economic curbs might be kept.

A top official said a final decision will be made today on a long list of goods tentatively tabbed for removal from price ceilings by Friday or Saturday.

Machinery Still Covered

The list makes up 15 per cent of consumer goods in the cost of living index package, he said, and would leave less than that percentage still under control. It includes such things as:

Milk, butter, cheese, poultry, eggs, oleomargarine, cleansers, soap, lard and other shortening; rubber and rubber products; lead, tin, zinc and scrap; pet foods; paper and paper products.

Controls would remain, at least for the time being, on such important items as machinery, most automobiles and scarce metals. But many of these do not have a direct bearing on the consumer.

The exemption of paper products would cover waxed and treated papers, plates and newsprint.

Erasure Gradual

Work on the list began after price officials met with James F. Brownlee, New York investment broker named to help Defense Mobilizer Arthur Flemming end controls and, at the same time, continue the program to produce scarce materials for defense.

In an interview, Brownlee lent weight to the idea that the Eisenhower administration will stick to a step-by-step erasure of price controls. A one-stroke sudden death had been urged in some quarters.

Brownlee spoke of a fast but gradual wiping out of ceilings. He said the job should be finished by mid-April, if not earlier. The controls law expires April 30.

Brownlee, who was deputy price administrator in World War II, said he favors keeping a standby authority to reimpose controls should an emergency arise. He indicated his job will include helping plan such a program.

"It is virtually impossible to unscramble distorted price situations after they occur," he commented.

Eisenhower Refuses To Spare Spy Couple From Death Sentence

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has refused to spare the lives of the Rosenbergs, whose controversial death sentences for atomic spying he termed just punishment for a crime which "could very well result in the death of many, many thousands of innocent citizens."

A New York attorney for the husband and wife, Emanuel Bloch, said he would carry a new appeal to the Supreme Court, which on two previous occasions has refused to review the case. The court almost never changes its mind in such circumstances.

Electrocution Delayed

The Rosenbergs—Julius, 34, and Ethel, 36—received the word that the President had turned down their appeal in the death cell block at New York's Sing Sing Prison. They had no comment. They have insisted they are innocent.

Their electrocution, originally set for Jan. 24, had been delayed by Judge Irving R. Kaufman while the presidential appeal was pending. The judge's stay expires four days hence; he will then fix a new date for the death sentence to be carried out.

If it is, the Rosenbergs will be the first American civilians to pay with their lives for the crime of espionage against the U. S.

That fact has figured largely in the world-wide propaganda campaign, sparked by Communists, to save them. Pickets paraded in front of the White House. Others marched in New York's Times Square. In Paris, 400 Communists called at the U. S. Embassy to protest. The Daily Worker, Communist party paper in New York, ran a "Save the Rosenbergs" campaign.

Crime Against Nation

Some non-Communists, too, thought the death sentence was too severe. Among these: scientists Albert Einstein and Dr. Harold C. Urey, both of whom contributed to early work on the atomic bomb.

Most of these appeals for clemency were directed to Harry Truman, who did not get around to a decision, because the Justice Department was still studying the case, before he yielded the presidency to Eisenhower.

Atty. Gen. Brownell carried the Rosenberg case papers to the White House about 4:30 p.m. yesterday. Little more than half an hour later, the President's decision was announced in a statement.

"I have given earnest consideration to the records in the case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg and to the appeals for clemency made in their behalf," the President said.

"The nature of the crime for which they have been found guilty and sentenced far exceeds that of the taking of the life of another citizen; it involves the deliberate betrayal of the entire nation and could very well result in the death of many, many thousands of innocent citizens.

"By their act these two indivi-

Ex-GI Convicted In Treason Case

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Army Sgt. John David Provoo was convicted last night of treason.

He faces a sentence that could be anything from five years in prison to death for treachery while a prisoner of the Japanese during World War II.

A Federal Court jury found him guilty of four overt acts of treason. It was unable to agree on three other treason allegations.

The good-looking, tall and square-jawed veteran was pale and tense as the court clerk read the jury's findings in detail. Judge Gregory F. Noonan scheduled a hearing on defense motions and sentencing for next Tuesday. The 35-year-old defendant was taken to the Federal House of Detention.

One of the charges on which Provoo was convicted was that he was at least partly responsible for the death of a fellow prisoner of war, Army Capt. Burton C. Thomson of Swea City, Ia. Thomson was executed by the Japanese on Corregidor after Provoo who was in favor with the prison camp commanders, reported him as uncooperative and anti-Japanese.

The jury of seven women and five men also found Provoo guilty of offering his services to the Japanese captors and of making two radio broadcasts from Tokyo during the war.

Girl Who Was Boy Back Home From Stay In Denmark

NEW YORK (AP) — Christine Jorgensen, who underwent medical treatment which changed her from man to woman, returned home today from Denmark.

The 26-year-old Christine, who once served in the U. S. Army as George Jorgensen Jr., stepped from an airliner at Idlewild Airport while an excited crowd stared curiously.

She was smartly dressed in a loose-fitting nutria coat and a close-fitting hat of nutria with a chartreuse center.

At the shouted demands of more than 50 newsreel, television and still photographers, she turned and went back up the steps of the trans-world airliner.

Gesturing impatiently, she cried in a feminine, alto voice:

"Come on, hurry up, let's go."

Then she hurried on to clear immigration and customs, at the moment unable to talk with reporters.

She returned after two years of medical treatment in Denmark to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Jorgensen in the Bronx.

Korea Warmer; War In Slump

SEOUL (AP)—Fighting dwindled to small raids and patrol clashes on the Korean battlefront today as the warmest weather of the year carried into a second day.

The mercury climbed well above 40 across the 155-mile battle line. Rain swept the Western Front.

B26 light bomber pilots reported destruction of 135 Red trucks last night.

A dozen U. S. B29 Superforts pounded Communist installations near Pyongyang, North Korean capital. A Red fighter plane fired at one of the Superforts but two other Red craft failed to attack.

Public Hearing Held In Lansing On Revenue Plan

LANSING (AP)—Another major tax plan, including repeal of the sales tax and a five per cent state income tax, popped up in the House today as a House committee gathered to hold a public hearing on the "Conlin Plan."

The plan submitted by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) would revise the sales tax diversion and recapture the $50,000,000 Veterans Trust Fund.

Senator Creighton R. Coleman (R-Battle Creek), chairman of the Republican Senate Caucus, reported he believed the Conlin plan "is dead right now; the American Legion is starting to slug it."

Veterans Neutral

Other Senators said they had seen no evidence that the Legion or any other veterans organization was actively opposing the proposal and that in their experience veterans were at least neutral when the plan was explained to them fully.

The newest plan for solving the state's financial difficulties was proposed by Rep. Lewis G. Christman (R-Ann Arbor).

He would repeal the sales, use and intangibles taxes and reduce the corporation franchise tax to two per cent.

A five per cent state income tax would be levied on the estimated $10,000,000 annual income of both corporations and individuals.

Slim Chance To Pass

This would raise $300,000,000, but 40 per cent of this or $120,000,000 would go to schools in lieu of the sales tax diversion and the school aid appropriation. Another 10 per cent or $30,000,000 would go to municipalities to compensate them for the loss of the sales tax diversion.

After the loss of present taxes, the state would be left with a net gain of an additional $60,000,000 for the general fund.

To round out the plan, Christman would give cities the right to levy other taxes than those on property. Thus, the whole field of amuse-

Wartime Buddy Killer Convicted

DETROIT (AP) — Donald G. Courtade, 24, was convicted Wednesday of voluntary manslaughter in the shooting of his wartime buddy, Albert Doornbos, 23, of Grand Rapids.

A jury of eight women and four men deliberated more than four hours before announcing its verdict.

Courtade will be sentenced Feb. 25. The maximum penalty for voluntary manslaughter is 15 years imprisonment.

Doornbos was shot to death last Aug. 23 as he sat in a parked car with Courtade near a Detroit bar. The shooting climazed a drunken reunion.

Courtade, a Detroit patrolman, testified he was so drunk he could not remember what happened.

Courtade's wife, Janice, 22, and Doornbos' date, Virginia Heintzelman, 21, of Grand Rapids, accompanied the pals on a reunion drinking party. They were standing on the sidewalk some distance from the car.

Auto Derails Train; Four Persons Killed And Several Injured

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP) — A train-auto collision in near-freezing rain and fog here last night killed the car's four occupants, derailed the train and injured about a dozen crewmen and passengers.

The train, the Baltimore & Ohio's West Virginian, was on its way to Parkersburg, W. Va., from Washington, D. C., some 25 miles to the southeast. A railroad spokesman said the locomotive and tender and seven of its eight cars jumped the rails when the auto jammed a switch.

Police Lt. Paul W. Watkins identified the dead as Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, their son Pete, about 30, and Upton Harding, about 35.

LELAND (AP) — A 40-year-old fruit grower and farmer, John J. Persic, was found shot to death Wednesday in the garage of his home near Cedar in Leelanau County.

Persic was a candidate for county treasurer in the November election.

Veteran Legislator From Michigan Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Rep. Roy O. Woodruff, veteran Republican legislator from Michigan, died today at Walter Reed Hospital.

He served 17 terms in the House of Representatives before retiring from public office at the close of the 82nd Congress last month.

Ha gave failing health as his reason for not seeking reelection.

Woodruff was 76.

A resident of Bay City, Mich., Woodruff represented the 10th Congressional District. His place in Congress was taken by Elford A. Cederberg, also a Republican.

Detroit Industrialist Honored By Sweden

WASHINGTON (AP) — Swedish officials have notified a Detroit industrialist that he will be honored by Sweden with the decoration of the Knighthood of the Northern Star for his work in promoting Swedish-American relations.

The Swedish Embassy yesterday notified Gustav Von Reis that the decoration will be presented to him in the name of the King of Sweden at a ceremony to be held here at a later date.

People Of Sudan Granted Freedom From British Rule

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A British-Egyptian agreement giving the eight million people of the neighboring Sudan the right to determine their own future is expected to be signed here today. The pact would help pave the way for talks on a Middle East defense system tied to the Atlantic Alliance.

Reports from London said that Prime Minister Churchill's government planned an important statement on the Sudan in the House of Commons today. The British Cabinet reportedly approved the agreement with Egypt during an hour-long meeting yesterday.

Influence Dwindles

Egyptian Premier Mohammed Naguib is expected to initial the accord for the Cairo government, with Ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson signing for Britain. Usually well-informed British sources said the delegations originally planned to complete the pact yesterday but "slight technical details" delayed things.

The agreement trims Britain's influence in the million-square-mile, cotton-growing land on the Upper Nile that she has ruled jointly with Egypt for 54 years.

It also removes one of the chief sources of discord between Britain and Egypt, leaving only the question of British troops in the strategic Suez Canal zone still troubling relations between the two countries and barring the way to possible Egyptian participation in the joint defense discussions.

May Join Egypt

Successive Cairo governments long have demanded that the British get out of the Sudan. In October, 1951, the Egyptian Parliament proclaimed the unity of the entire Nile Valley under the Egyptian crown.

The new pact, however, gives the Sudanese people the right to freely determine their own political future within the next three years. They may choose to join Egypt, become a member of the British Commonwealth or establish themselves as an unlinked independent state.

The accord provides for country-wide elections leading to the formation of a Sudanese parliament, international supervision of the self-determination processes, orderly transfer of power from the present British-Egyptian administrators to the Sudanese, and political safeguards for two million less-advanced pagan Negroes who live in the southern part of the country.

Throughout the negotiations for the agreement, the British insisted

Vatican Being Asked To Annul Marriage Of Ex-Diplomat O'Dwyer

MEXICO CITY P — Mexico's Roman Catholic Archbishop Luis Maria Martinez says the Vatican is being asked to annul the marriage of former U. S. Ambassador William O'Dwyer and his wife Sloan.

They were granted a Catholic separation Jan. 17. At that time, O'Dwyer, once mayor of New York, said the "eventual outcome of our marriage rests in the hands of the ecclesiastical authorities."

O'Dwyer indicated yesterday that he has acquired a permanent resident status in Mexico since his recent resignation as U. S. ambassador but did not say what business he is pursuing here.

Father Of Arizona Dies In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Henry Cameron, who guided Arizona to statehood and later became its Senator, died today.

The 89-year-old Phoenix mining man, who obtained statehood for Arizona while serving as the teritory's delegate in Congress, was taken to Doctors Hospital here after he suffered a heart attack Feb. 7 while on a business trip. He contracted bronchial pneumonia later.

Cameron was the last teritorial delegate to Congress from the last territory to join the Union. He was elected for a term from 1909 to 1911 but it was extended a year by the presidential proclamation granting statehood to Arizona in 1912. He returned to Congress for a six-year term as Senator in 1921-27.

Drunk Finds Bunk

FRANKFORT, Ind. (AP) — Arresting Leo (Mickey) Sipes for public intoxication was one of the easiest jobs Frankfort police ever had. They just shut a door—gently, to keep from waking him. Sipes apparently slipped in the back door at headquarters and took the first bed he saw. Officers on duty were surprised to find him in a cell. They locked the door and slated him for an appearance in city court.

Russia And Israel Break Off Relations Over Bomb Incident

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union broke off diplomatic relations with Israel Wednesday night and the eight adults and one child at the Israeli legation here began packing at once to leave Moscow.

The Soviets acted, a government note to Israel said, because of the bomb explosion at the Soviet legation in Tel Aviv, Israeli's capital, on Monday. The note, which Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky handed to Israel's minister here, Samuel Eliashev, accused Israeli government leaders of inciting hostile action against the Soviet Union.

Apologies Rejected

The Soviets said three Russians, including the wife of Soviet Minister Pavel I. Yershov, were injured in the explosion. The note did not mention the legation cook who was the only casualty still reported in a serious condition.

The note turned aside subsequent explanations and alopogies by the Israeli government and accused it of falsehoods, double dealing, and a "systematic fanning of hatred and enmity toward the Soviet Union and an incitement to hostile actions against the Soviet Union."

Suspects Rounded Up

Israeli police were accused of conniving in the bombing.

The unknown terrorists who set off the blast were denounced by Israel's Premier David Ben-Gurion for a "dastardly act" which, he said, reflected on the honor of the state of Israel.

The Israeli government began an immediate roundup of suspects and said it would pay reparations to the Soviets.

The bombing apparently was in retaliation for the recent anti-Zionist campaign in Moscow.

The breakoff ended almost five years of diplomatic relations between the two countries. The Soviets on May 17, 1948, were the third nation to recognize the then two-day old Jewish state.

Twenty-five Israelis were injured Wednesday in a new flurry of violence in Tel Aviv. Using stones and their fists, a mob of anti-Communists charged a pro-Soviet rally which had been called to protest the Monday terrorist bombing. Police finally halted clash.

Archbishop Denounces Diego Rivera Mural Of Virgin And Comic

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Archbishop of Mexico today joined the chorus denouncing famed artist Diego Rivera's new movie house mural. Msgr. Luis Maria Martinez said the painting should be censured by all Mexican Catholics.

The controversial new painting, attacked as sacrilegious last week by the Mexican Nationalist party, depicts the famous Mexican film comic Marion (Cantinflas) Moreno in his customary peasant film garb alongside the Virgin of Guadalupe. Catholic tradition says that the Virgin appeared in the 16th century to St. Juan Diego, an Indian peasant.

The archbishop said the painting "runs against the religious sentiments of all true Catholics." The PNM has threatened a boycott of the theater.

British Team Leaves To Climb Mt. Everest

LONDON (AP)—A British expedition left today to make yet another attempt at scaling Mount Everest—the wind-swept 29,000 foot peak in the Himalayas that never has been conquered.

An attack of sinusitis prevented Col. John Hunt, the leader, from traveling with the climbers. He plans to join the expedition in India at the end of the month.

Senate To Quiz Gen. Van Fleet

TOKYO (AP) — Gen. James A. VanFleet, smiling but misty-eyed as he neared the end of a glorious military career, left Tokyo for home and retirement today.

Immediately behind him was a record of 22 months as commander of the multination U. S. Eighth Army in Korea. Directly ahead is an appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee in Washington to explain his belief that an Allied offensive in Korea could be successful.

"Big Jim" had a one-word answer—"Certainly"—when AP Correspondent John Randolph asked him Tuesday: "Do you think a general offensive in Korea can be successful at this time?"

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) told a Lincoln Day dinner at Patterson, N. J., Wednesday night, "As chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, I am planning to have Gen. Van Fleet spell out to us in detail just how he feels this might be done."

Harnischfeger Seeking Space For Expansion

Seeking additional space for expansion of its operations in Escanaba, Harnischfeger Corporation representatives today presented to Escanaba City Council a cooperative plan in which space now occupied by Northern Motor Rebuilders would become available to Harnischfeger.

The city owns the former Steele-Wallace property on Stephenson Avenue, now occupied by Northern Motor Rebuilders and Harnischfeger Corporation's welder plant.

Northern Motor Rebuilders is the oldest tenant there and occupied space before the city in Nov., 1946, entered into a lease-option agreement for the entire area with Harnischfeger Corporation.

Under Advisement

Thomas Korb, Milwaukee, secretary and general counsel for Harnischfeger Corporation, Robert Losse, Escanaba, manager of the Harnischfeger truck crane plant; H. J. Norton and Carl Benzinger of Northern Motor Rebuilders attended the meeting with the City Council

The proposal to the city was as follows:

The Northern Motor Rebuilders vacate the city-owned building on Stephenson avenue and move to the Solar building on First Avenue North, so the present Motor Rebuilders building would be available to Harnischfeger.

That the city renovate the city-owned Solar building at a cost of $23,700; and enter into a lease with Northern Motor Rebuilders with rental payments at $200 per month; and assist in Northern Motor Rebuilders moving costs to the amount of $8,000.

That Harnischfeger Corporation pay to the city in advance two years' rental on the Steel-Wallace property, approximately $24,000, to assist the city in meeting the cost of providing suitable housing for Northern Motor Rebuilders.

The proposal was taken under advisement by the City Council in the absence of City Manager A. V. Aronson, who is attending a city manager's meeting in Ann Arbor. With the city manager the Council will further discuss the proposal at a special meeting to be held Saturday morning.

Both Large Employers

By such a proposal Harnischfeger and Northern Motor Rebuilders hope to make money available to the city to solve the problem of Harnischfeger's need for additional space and to provide suitable housing for Northern Motor Rebuilders.

Both Harnischfeger Corporation and H. J. Norton interests are large employers in Escanaba.

Norton's several firms employ over 400 persons. Harnischfeger's employment roll now totals nearly 800 here.

The City Council expressed appreciation for the economic assistance the industries have provided the community, and assured the industrial representatives that a decision on their proposal will be reached soon. Expansion of both industries should be encouraged so far possible, the City Council agreed.

The industries said they hoped to have all of the moving operations completed by April 1 if the Council approves.

Shepeck To Construct Oil Terminal At Wells For Lease To Shell Co.

Construction of oil terminal facilities at Wells by the Shepeck Dimension Company for lease to Shell Oil Company is now under way and is scheduled for completion July 1, H. H. Shepeck, general manager of Shepeck Dimension Company, announced today.

The installation for lease to the Shell Oil Company will permit the transportation of gasoline and fuel oil by boat to supply the Northern Michigan-Wisconsin area.

From the four storage tanks that will be built in the first step of the installation the oil and gasoline will be distributed by rail and highway from Wells, rather than direct by railroad car from the Lower Lakes.

Build Four Tanks

Boats will dock at the present Shepeck Dimension dock on the bay side south of the mouth of the Escanaba River. The oil and gasoline will flow from the tankers by line to the storage tanks in an area removed from the water front.

Two of the tanks to be constructed will be 100 feet in diameter, one will be 70 feet in diameter, and the fourth tank 50 feet in diameter.

The area to be leased to Shell Oil will be that on which the tanks will be located. There is ample area for future expansion.

Rail, Highway Access

Direct rail connection will be furnished by the Escanaba & Lake Superior Railroad from Wells to connecting rail lines. There is easy access to trunkline highways for Shell Oil fuel trucks.

At the present time there is only one other oil terminal on northern Green Bay, the Theisen-Clemens Company at Kipling on Little Bay de Noc.

Shepeck Dimension expects that its installation for lease to the Shell Oil Company will be ready for delivery by July 1.

World Half Slave And Half Free Problem Of Today, Says Kersten

Rep. Charles J. Kersten of Milwaukee last night told Delta County Republicans meeting in the annual Lincoln Day dinner that the basic question of today is whether the world can remaln permanently half slave and half free.

Posing his question in the language of Abraham Lincoln whose birthday the Delta County Republicans had gathered in the Delta Hotel to celebrate, Rep. Kersten said destiny had handed this question to the Republican Party of today for solution just as an earlier age had handed a similar problem to the Republican Party under Lincoln.

A crowd estimated at 100 to 125 heard Rep. Kersten predict that the near future will see Republican leadership "cancel diplomatic relations with the Communist regimes, on the grounds not that we are the enemies of the Russian people but that we are their friends."

Parallel To Lincoln

The title of his address, was "The Republican Party and Slavery." He immediately drew the parallel to Lincoln. A hundred years ago the Republican Party led a fight against slavery, he said, but a slavery strangely more gentle than the Iron Curtain slavery of today. Then, many in the South were free. And the slaves themselves knew nothing of freedom.

Today, one third of the world lives in that "prison or cemetery of nations known as the Soviet Union" and its satellites, "surrounded by barbed wire, electronic devices and machine guns." But, said Rep. Kersten — and this was a significant point—many of the new slaves have known freedom. And a slave who has known freedom will feel an emotional pull toward our side. We must increase that pull and draw those people toward us, the Milwaukee congressman declared.

Emphasizing how important a people's will to win a war became when there was a war to be fought, he said that "the will of the people behind the Iron Curtain is one of the great factors in whether Stalin will ever be able to strike against the free world."

International Responsibility

Continuing to develop a theory of international responsibility far beyond anything dreamed of by Republican statesmen of recent generations, but one with strong roots in the American past, he said that those people must know the United States has not abandoned them and never will abandon them. If they think they are deserted they may in their hopelessness swing over to Stalin, Kersten warned.

"The policy of liberation is the only true road to peace," he said.

Do these people really feel a pull toward us? Rep. Kersten answered this by citing the "torrent" of people crossing the German borders into the free world. He said that whenever a Soviet diplomat goes home after a tour of duty in the west, the Soviet government feels it must "re-educate" him. And he said that during the war the Russian people at first greeted the Germans as liberators and strewed flowers in their path, until they found the new tyranny worse than the old.

We must therefore cease, said Rep. Kersten, to wine and dine the diplomats of Iron Curtain countries in our capitals. We must cease the external display of a friendship we do not feel for these governments which are enslaving their own peoples. For that implies to the slaves that we sanction the despots; and that we care nothing for the slaves. This was why, Rep. Kersten said, the coming break with Communist regimes will take place.

Policy Recommendations

Rep. Kersten closed with some policy recommendations. We should expel the Communist representatives from the United Nations, he declared, because they do not represent the people of their countries. And we should provide for the forming of military units composed of escapees from Communist Europe. These units should be attached to the West European Army, and should have their own uniforms and flags.

Early in his address Rep. Kersten praised Michigan Senator Homer Ferguson for helping to show "the close relation between the Communist conspiracy and our own State Department." Saying Sen. Ferguson had helped to bring out testimony incriminating Owen Lattimore, Rep. Kersten described Lattimore as a "Soviet agent" who had given advice on the highest levels of our government, and "whose works and whose recommendations have been largely responsible for the delivery of China to the Reds."

In another development during the evening, William Anderson of Escanaba was applauded when he read a motion endorsing Walter F. Gries of Ishpeming who is seeking Republican nomination to a post on the State Board of Education.

Gries was master of ceremonies during the evening. He was introduced by Myron Goodman, Gladstone, vice chairman of the Delta County Republican Committee.

Queen Victoria Story At Trenary Assembly Program

For its fifth season as the country's outstanding professional high school assembly theatrical company, The Conservatory Players will present Laurence Housman's "Happy and Glorious" at the Trenary High School Auditorium Monday Feb. 16 at 8 p. m.

The sections of this brilliant biography of Queen Victoria are familiar to theater-goers everywhere as Helen Hayes' three-year Broadway success "Victoria Regina".

The play, a charming combination of humor and pathos, depicts unusual and historical episodes from both the public and private life of one of the world's greatest rulers. As usual, the Conservatory Players will offer an adaptation of Mr. Housman's work especially written for assembly presentation.

The brilliant court costumes of the Victorian era and unusual stage settings will complete the production which has been planned to simulate in every way a full theatrical production. This version of "Happy and Glorious" will offer to school audiences sequences not used by Miss Hayes as well as one or two which she has made so famous.

Starred in the roles of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert will be Janice Foley and Gene Remington, pictured above, both of whom have fine backgrounds for theatre work.

U. P. Loss In Representation At Minimum Under Amendment 3

THE projected loss in representation in Michigan Legislature by the Upper Peninsula because of reapportionment should not be surprising to residents of this area. During the 1952 election campaign, it was pointed out by Upper Peninsula newspapers, all of which vigorously supported Amendment No. 3 and opposed Amendment No. 2, that the Upper Peninsula would lose some representation either way. The loss, however, is far less under Amendment No. 3 than it would have been under Amendment No. 2.

The Upper Peninsula will probably lose one representative in the House, but the area will not lose any of its senators. If Amendment No. 2 had carried, the Upper Peninsula would have sustained much greater loss in representation. The present reapportionment amendment requires that the area, as well as population, be a factor in determining the reallocation of senatorial districts.

The population decrease in the Upper Peninsula, combined with the population increases in industrial downstate areas, dictate some loss in representation for the Upper Peninsula. It was imperative that we prevent that loss from becoming too great. The enactment of Amendment No. 3 and the defeat of Amendment No. 2 accomplished that objective.

Netherlands Deserves All Our Help

AMERICAN sympathy is naturally very great for the many thousands of victims of the unparalleled flood havoc that has struck the low-lying coasts of Britain, Holland and Belgium.

Inevitably there will be from this country a generous outpouring of assistance of many kinds. Americans recently have been chafing under the continuing heavy burdens of foreign aid, but they are not the sort to let the politics of foreign affairs get in the way of their humanitarian impulses.

One can make no distinction among peoples who are undergoing such heart-rending suffering. To all must go the helping hand and the fullest understanding of their plight.

Yet there is a special and brutal irony in the fact that tiny, doughty Holland is the worst hit by disaster.

Only a short time before the storm sent towering waves to engulf the Dutch coast, the Netherlands government has indicated to the United States that it would renounce $15,000,000 it was scheduled to receive under the foreign aid program.

The thrifty, hard-working Dutch had bravely lifted themselves up to a condition of at least temporary self-reliance, and were an example to all Western Europe.

More than that, the Dutch had not long before just managed to overcome the last lingering effects of the man-made flood devastation wrought by the angry Nazis as they abandoned Netherlands soil in World War II.

The Germans had opened the dikes and allowed ruinous salt water to pour over productive lands. Thousands and thousands of acres were rendered useless for a long time.

Painstakingly, the Dutch set about restoring this soil as farmland. At the very minimum, it takes two years to compensate for the damaging effects of salt deposits. In many places, the task is considerably slower.

Now, with that ordeal barely behind them, many Dutch farmers must go through the same thing all over again. This fantastic double burden must strain their patience and fortitude to the limit.

So, because they have suffered most, it is fair that we give money and clothes and other necessities with a special eye to the Dutch. In the humanitarian view, theirs is the commanding need. From the hard-boiled, practical standpoint, if any insist upon it, the Dutch have eminently earned our help.

Kilts have been worn since 1626. Now we know what they mean by the "thrifty Scotsman."

10% Tax Cut Would Be Helpful

THE Eisenhower administration apparently is willing to go along with the proposal to reduce individual income taxes 10%, beginning July 1, even though Treasury officials may be only lukewarm toward the scheme at the present time.

The psychological effect of such a tax reduction obviously would be good. Taxpayers are carrying a terrific burden now and although a 10% reduction beginning July 1 would take only a small slice out of the tax bite, there is no doubt that taxpayers will welcome any relief, even though small.

The Eisenhower administration has emphasized that it seeks to reduce taxes but preferred to reduce expenses and to approach a budget balanced before cutting tax rates. Actually, the decision to cut taxes may have a good effect in forcing department heads to reduce their operating expenses.

There's nothing so useless as a leftover meal ticket on a restaurant that's gone bankrupt and is closed.

AMAZING STUDY OF WOOD
(Green Bay Press Gazette)

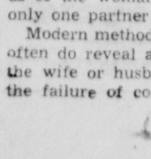

Experts from the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison wer asked to report respecting the durability of the beam upon which the Liberty Bell has swung so long in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, so that it might be known whether the famous bell that ushered in the birth of America was still safe or not.

A shaving from the beam was all that was necessary. The shaving disclosed the beam as black walnut, slippery elm or a similar durable sort. Such a beam will not only support the ton of bell it has been holding so long but enough more could be strung upon it to make a good-sized chimes that would be safe indefinitely.

It was a Wisconsin expert about 25 years ago who opened the eyes of the world when he testified as a witness against the kidnapper of the Lindbergh infant who had left behind the ladder he constructed with which to get into a second story window and steal the child. This expert not only traced the pieces of wood in that ladder to the lumber yard at New York where the kidnapper had been working but to the North Carolina mill where the log had been planed. When the expert finished the kidnapper could not even get his jaw back into place. The testimony was overwhelming. Better still, it was demonstrated then and there before the eyes of the jurors. For to the wood expert a piece of lumber talks even more plainly than fingerprints.

The Doctor Says . . .

Say In Top Physical Condition If Any Hope Of Having Child

By EDWIN P JORDAN, M D — Written for NEA Service

A lady who read one of these columns on barren marriages asks for further information. She says that she is 37 years old, has been married 16 years, but has been unable to have a child.

Doctors have examined both her and her husband and have never told her she would not ever conceive, but haven't really told her what the trouble is, she says. She adds she thought that to be sterile means one cannot bear children.

This is indeed a difficult and touching problem. There are many married couples who want very much to have children and just do not seem to be able to do so. The "why" of this is not always easy to discover.

However, it should be said first that fertility is not always what may be called an absolute matter. In nearly all human beings fertility varies from time to time, but it is apparent that some persons have longer periods of comparative sterility than others.

The first step for a couple that wishes to have children but does not seem able to do so, is for both partners to be thoroughly examined. Failure to bear children is just about as likely to be "the fault" of the man as of the woman, and an examination of only one partner is therefore inconclusive.

Modern methods of examination can and often do reveal a physical cause either in the wife or husband which may explain the failure of conception. In many cases, and in either partner, this can be corrected.

In the correspondent whose inquiry is mentioned at the begining of this column, however, that step has already been taken and apparently the doctors have not found any definite reason why the couple cannot have children. If this is the case, the couple must be recognized as "relatively infertile" —that is, they can have children, but the chances of having them are not very good.

This, however, explains why the physicians in charge have not committed themselves to saying that the woman cannot ever conceive. Indeed she may go along for years and then, when she has given up hope, may suddenly have a child.

MAY NEED VITAMINS

In couples where there is relative infertility—in other words, no definite reason why conception cannot take place—the effort has to be made to keep both husband and wife in the best possible physical condition. Sometimes the addition of vitamins to the diet, the correction of some minor defects—even such as diseased tonsils, or the like—may bring about the desired result.

The physician is here looking on the borderlines of medical knowledge and cannot guarantee any results, but it seems to be an undoubted truth that sometimes improvement in the general condition of one or both partners will lead to the birth of a child long desired and long delayed.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—Drew Pearson is now on a trip to Berlin and Paris to check on crucial developments there and report on progress being made in unifying our allies.)

BERLIN.—A young German teacher was telling why he escaped from East Berlin where he had been teaching school under the Communists.

"I debated it a long time," he said. "Most people do. It isn't an easy decision to make. A lot of us think we can do more good staying among the Communists and undercutting them.

"Take my case," he continued. "I had to work terribly hard because at night, after school, I had to attend special Communist night classes where we were told what to teach. And we had to go through the pretense of teaching Communist drivel. However, the children are smart and by the tone of your voice or by using sarcasm they get the truth. I suppose that most of the German teachers in East Berlin are teaching that way—going through the motions yet doing their best to convey the real truth about Russia.

"However, one night I went to a movie in West Berlin. It was a movie about Marshal Rommel, called 'The Desert Rat.' I wanted to se what it was like but, coming out of the movie, I saw a Communist spy who had been keeping an eye on me. I knew my time was up, so I stayed in West Berlin that night and have never gone back."

"Was the movie worth all the trouble it caused?" I asked.

"No, it glorified Rommel, made him a hero when he was really a heel," the schoolteacher replied.

EUROPEAN PHENOMENON

It isn't hard to cross the iron curtain between Communist Germany and free Berlin. There are 66 streets leading between the Communist world and the free word. And, while at every place else along the long line of barbed wire leading from the Baltic to the Balkans you are likely to be shot, if you want to cross the iron curtain at Berlin you merely ride the subway during the rush hour or walk down a side street. You can even carry a suitcase and the guards won't bother you—unless you take too many suitcases. That's why it's better to leave your baggage with a friend, then come back and carry it across the border piece by piece.

At first it was largely Jews who came across—elderly Jews, who had lived their entire lives in one place, hated to move, and didn't move until Stalin started emulating Hitler. Now there are not many Jews left in East Germany, possibly 2,000, yet the steram of refugees keeps piling across from the Communist zone to the free zone like a human tidal wave—Protestants, Catholics, all religions— all trades—sometimes 2,000 a day and a total of 26,000 in January. It's the greatest phenomenom in Europe.

Berlin has always had some refugees. Berliners got used to them, like the steady drip of a leaky spigot. But now the spigot has turned loose a flood sea of humanity seeking refuge from Communist oppression. It's the greatest challenge to the free world since the Berlin airlift.

Obviously the Communist leaders on the side of the iron curtain are chortling at the embarrassment of German officials who have already absorbed 11,000,000 refugees since the war and are now called upon to handle this additional influx despite a quarter of a million unemployed already in Berlin.

REFUGEE CAMPS CROWDED

Though the Bonn government has now organized a virtual human airlift to fly refugees out of jam-packed Berlin, 77 refugee camps have been organized within this battered but energetic onetime capital of Germany. I visited some of them yesterday. One young farmer's wife with three children told how her husband faced prison for inability to fill his onion quota.

"We were supposed to supply the state with 800 kilos (1,760 pounds) of onions," she explained, "but we had a crop failure and produced only one-quarter that much. They told us to supply 60 centners (600 pounds) of pork instead, but we didn't have that much—so they are taking our land."

Another farmer from Mecklenburg had a similar experience.

"I was supposed to supply 80 centners of pork together with beets and other things but I fell down on the pork quota. Next year I turned the farm over to my son, thinking he could do better, but he had hard lucky too. We didn't eat any pork, milk or butter ourselves. We tried to produce for the state but it was no use. I'm a grandfather. My farm has been with my family for 700 years. Some day I hope to go back—when we have no more Communism in Germany."

A woman who had fled from Brandenburg had this to say: "There were only two Communists in our village, but they caused all the trouble. I expect the Russians are the same way. They aren't such bad people, but just a few of them cause all the trouble."

Flood In Netherlands Is Like Swamping Five States In U. S.

By WADE JONES

THE HAGUE—(NEA)— Imagine that a huge tidal wave rolled in from the Atlantic Ocean one stormy Winter night and completely engulfed the Carolinas, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland.

Picture 18,000 or more people drown, 1.5 million left homeless, 4.5 million suffering serious losses.

Untold hundreds of thousands of cattle, sheep, pigs and chickens are lost and the soil of the entire five-state area is at least temporarily ruined for agriculture by salt water.

All homes in the flooded land are badly damaged and some are destroyed. Highways and railroads are crippled or ripped out completely.

That—in terms of the relative sizes of the U.S. and Holland—is what has happened to this little country.

Actually, the situation produced by the catastrophic floods here is much worse economically than a comparable disaster pictured for the United States. Holland's very existence depends on trade with other nations—37 per cent of all she produces goes abroad. In the U. S. the figure is four per cent. And of Holland's total exports, about half are agricultural products.

The flood's staggering blow to Dutch economy can be seen in the fact that the five per cent of the area inundated contains the richest soil in the whole country, according to agricultural experts here.

Adding to Holland's present tragedy is the fact that only five days before the floods struck, this little country of 10 million people had gotten over the hump in a grueling seven-year program of recovery from the devastation of World War II.

Holland was able to announce with pride Jan. 28 that her economy had recovered to a point where she would no longer need non-military U. S. dollar aid.

Now where is she?

Unofficial estimates have placed her total flood cost as high as five billion guilders ($1.5 billion), which is as much as the entire budget for the Dutch government for 1953.

Long after the flood the Dutch still don't know what hit them. Actually they know it was one of the greatest North Sea storms in history. But it struck so fast and with such unimaginable force that they are still stunned.

And that's despite seven centuries of conditioning for just such a disaster — centuries in which they fought with wooden shoes, windmills and canals to drive the sea out and then built 1500 miles of dikes to keep it out.

A large part of Holland's 15,000 square mile area was once under water and half the country's people have been living on land below sea level, behind the questionable protection of great earthen dikes.

Some countries seem destined for disaster. Holland isn't one of them. She's a sweet-natured place where people grow tulips — 600,000 of them a year—and ride bicycles — five million of them for 10 million people.

But down inside, Holland is also tough and brainy, as evidenced by the fact that, according to an American government economist here, "she pulled herself out of the hole following World War II by sheer will, tremendous self - sacrifice, and smart planning."

In the absence of any official word on how Holland intends to get out of her present hole, it might be well to take a look at how she pulled the trick following the last war.

When the war ended, 40 per cent of Holland's productive capacity was knocked out. The Germans who had occupied her carried away 86 complete plants and more than 28,000 machines. Nearly 10 per cent of the arable land had been inundated. Of 2.2 million homes, 92,000 had been destroyed. Agricultural production was half the 1938 level, industrial production only one-fourth.

Holland wisely saw inflation as one of the greatest obstacles to postwar recovery, so she took several measures to hold it down.

One was to collect back taxes unpaid during the war. Holland has a very efficient tax collecting system, and people are still getting bills for wartime taxes deliberately withheld to keep them from German coffers. Collecting back taxes (at rates about the same as the U. S.) took sizeable chunks of money out of circulation.

Curbs were placed on credit. Ceilings were clamped on wages and rents and are still in effect. The average factory worker gets from $12.50 to $15 a week; average rent for apartments and houses is $11.50 a month.

While individual labor union members grumble at low wage ceilings, their leaders are generally convinced wages must remain low so the cost of Holland's goods will be in a competitive price position on the world market.

Industry grumbles, too, at regulations like the limit on dividends, but the effect is to force more money back into plant improvement and expansion.

In 1948, Marshall Plan aid came to Holland. In the years following, she got nearly a billion dollars worth of it and she used it wisely.

Instead of starting out in slapdash fashion to improve her industry on pre-war standards, she sought advice of American technical experts on latest techniques and machinery. She sent a number of engineers and technicians to America to study our methods.

It paid off. Her industrial production last year was 53 per cent over the 1938 figure. France and England show only a 38 per cent rise for the same period.

Holland has had her setbacks in that time. She lost her rich Indonesian holdings. With the advent of the Korean war, prices skyrocketed on the biggest imports such as machinery, iron and steel and oil. At the same time, prices rose only a little comparatively on her principal exports — milk and dairy products, fabrics and clothing.

Then came the floods—and the whole tough job to do over again.

FLOOD'S STAGGERING BLOW is etched in this picture of an aged Dutch woman staring at her ravaged farm fields. All the worldly goods she could salvage from the disaster are piled at her feet.

MODEST HEROES—Jon Thorin and Wilbert DeGrave, Escanaba pilots who hit the headlines when they rescued six marooned fishermen from a Green Bay ice floe a few weeks ago, disclaim any intention of playing the hero role.

Appearing on an NBC radio show in Chicago Feb. 6, DeGrave and Thorin were showered with questions and gifts.

When asked what his feelings were at the time of the rescue, Thorin replied:

"There's no telling how a man will react in a situation. This proved two things to me. When you're in a spot, every man is your brother.

"If Will and I are heroes, we're heroes who were made, not born. We had to rescue those men because if we hadn't, we'd have to live with our consciences for a long time to come."

So the story ends happily enough, with six men rescued and Jon and Will and their families receiving a reward in gifts—and pride in a good job well done.

MEN AND MACHINES—The snowfall had continued off and on for three days. It piled deep in alleys and streets, wet and heavy, hampering auto traffic and stalling many motorists.

Day and night throughout the storm the "snow fighters" were busy on county roads and city streets, clearing sidewalks and state highways.

These men who man the plows and other equipment to clear away the snow display special skill in handling the heavy machines. Watch a big plow moving at a steady pace along the highway, the bladers and sanders and tractor plows at work, and you will recognize that here is one man directing a machine that out-performs a hundred men with shovels.

Without these "snow fighters" Northern Michigan would soon retrogade—transportation-wise—back to the horse and buggy days.

WORLD CHAMPIONS — The Swedes have won world acclaim for many achievements and they are undisputed champions of the world in coffee drinking.

This report comes to us from Carl Olson, principal of Manistique High School, who recently described to the Escanaba Rotary Club his visit to Sweden last summer.

"I intended, but forgot to mention that the Swedes are among the greatest newspaper readers in the world. They have 1,700 daily-weekly and monthly publications and their first newspaper begun in 1656, is the oldest in the world today, and is under parliamentary control," he wrote.

"While I mentioned the radio, I failed to mention their very high percapita of 293 sets per 1,000 people, something of a record. In telephones they average one to every six persons; bicycles one to every two people; and coffee drinkers?—a dubious record but world champs: Seven cups per person!"

HIGH PRESSURE—We're not giving any secrets away when we warn you to beware of a certain company operating in this area which uses unusual methods to obtain your business.

Representatives of the company, who apparently have nothing better to do, drive about the city watching the smoke rising from your chimney.

When they see smoke of a certain color or texture or something they halt, get out of their car, and tell the householder who owns the furnace from which the smoke is coming that his furnace neds attention. is coming that his furnace needs attention. —immediately.

Before the householder has time to ask too many questions the so-called repairmen have the fire out and the furnace torn apart. By this time protests are too late. You have a dismantled furnace and a repair bill coming up.

May we suggest that if you should be the subject of such unwanted attention you call the Escanaba Police Department?

The Police Department will see to it that your unsolicited callers are removed from the premises. Of course, if the callers have your furnace torn apart you might want them to stay long enough to put it together again.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

Would you like to be a public benefactor? You can, by helping to restore a one-time worthy word into its former good estate.

The word I have in mind is condign (kon-DINE). The term comes from the Latin condignus, meaning well deserving, very worthy. It's stem, dignus, is familiar to us in the word dignity, the state or condition of being worthy.

Now here's the point: This word condign was at one time quite correctly used in connection with anything which indicated that a person was receiving something that was well deserved. Thus, back in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, the best writers had such passages as "We render condign thanks," meaning well-earned or fully deserved thanks.

Women who weep while watching sad movies are really wasting tears. Think what they might get hubby to buy at home.

duals have in fact betrayed the cause of freedom for which free men are fighting and dying at this very hour."

The statement went on: The Rosenbergs were given a jury trial and duly convicted; the conviction was upheld in four appeals; the two "have been accorded their full measure of justice"; there is no new evidence and there are no mitigating circumstances which would justify changing the sentence.

"I have determined that it is my duty," Eisenhower said, "in the interest of the people of the United States, not to set aside the verdict of their representatives."

The Rosenbergs were sentenced April 5, 1951. Martin Sobell, 35, who was tried with them, was sentenced to 30 years in prison. David Greenglass, Mrs. Rosenberg's brother, also got 30 years after furnishing key testimony.

Greenglass testified the Rosenbergs persuaded him to turn over wartime atomic bomb secrets for relay to a Russian official in New York. He learned the secrets while stationed at the Los Alamos, N. M., A-bomb center in 1944.

Rosenberg is an electrical engineer. He and his wife, the mother of two small sons, were both born in New York City.

The gist of the campaign to save their lives was that the death penalty was unduly severe and that they had been convicted largely on the unsupported testimony of Greenglass.

Buys Totem Pole

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Neighbors of Vincent Price were something more than astonished yesterday when workmen unloaded a totem pole in the actor's yard.

A genuine totem pole, 25 feet tall.

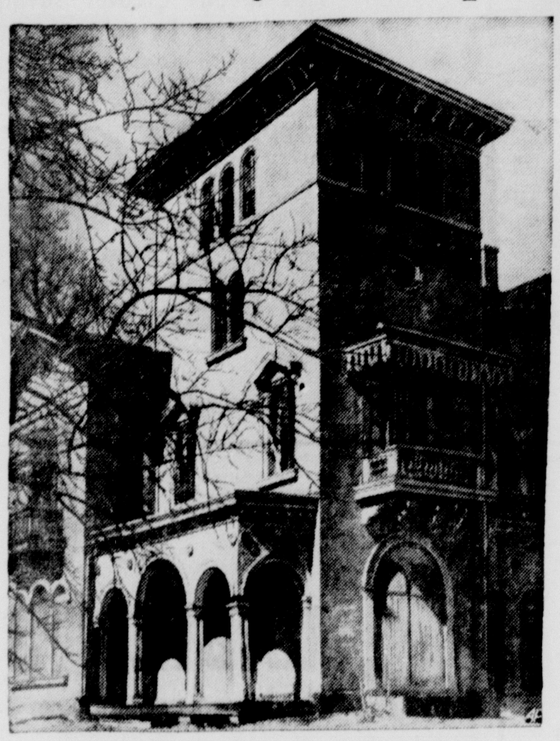

Price said he got it from an antique dealer, who got it from the estate of the late John Barrymore, who got it from Lemusurier Island off the coast of Alaska. Price also had a simple explanation:

"I started collecting Indian art work as a boy in Missouri."

Save A Relic:

Architectural Landmark Doomed At Johns Hopkins

WYMAN VILLA—Will it escape the wreckers?

By JACK DAVIS
AP Newsfeatures

BALTIMORE — A 100-year-old landmark on the Johns Hopkins University campus, considered one of the best examples of Italian architecture in the country, is perilously close to the razer's maul.

But it's not going down without a fight.

The landmark is the Wyman Villa, the home of William Wyman, who gave the university half of its 120-acre campus in North Baltimore and the residue of his estate, valued at more than $700,000, at his death.

The villa was designed by the famous American architect of a century ago, Richard Upjohn, who also drew up the plans for the King Villa in Newport, R. I.

The villa was bequeathed to the university in June 1949, after the death of Mrs. Daniel Rollins, daughter of Wyman. Since then the university has found no use for it.

More than a year ago members of the Wyman family and others interested in the villa banded together to do something about its preservation. Last March they became incorporated as the William Wyman Memorial Foundation, Inc., without capital stock and on a non-profit basis.

Their main object was to take some action toward the preservation and utilization of the villa by the university. They are trying to raise money to restore the colorful structure.

The villa has no modern heating system and the cost for renovating it would run to many thousands of dollars.

But the suggestion of tearing down the landmark has created sudden interest among the sympathizers of old, artistic buildings.

Prof. Donald Drew Egbert of Princeton University wrote to a Hopkins trustee:

"Everyone knows that a given generation is likely to regard the best art of its grandfathers as ugly and not worth preserving. But a generation or two later those same works of art are being preserved with great veneration.

"In all honesty I believe that if the Wyman Villa is demolished at this time, the next generation will look upon us who permitted its destruction as sheer vandals."

Prof. John Coolidge of the Department of Fine Arts of Harvard University expressed a fear that such action by Hopkins might adversely affect his own and other universities. He wrote a Hopkins trustee:

"A piece of vandalism such as the wanton destruction of the Wyman Villa, could have very serious repercussions on Johns Hopkins itself, and by extension on all American private universities."

that such safeguards were necessary to protect the backward Southerners who might otherwise be at the mercy of their more advanced Moslem neighbors.

Egypt and Britain still face the difficult question of hammering out an agreement on the Suez question. Naguib's government has made it plain that both the Suez and the Sudanese problems must be settled before it can join in broader defense discussions with the West.

Bonus To Korea Veterans Sought

LANSING (AP) — An Owosso Senator today struck at what he called "the continual violation of the secrecy of adoption proceedings—mostly in Wayne County."

Senator James M. Teahen (R-Owosso) filed a bill which would instruct the Probate Courts to turn over all records of adoption cases to the State Health Commissioner for safekeeping. Such records would be kept in locked files, but could be returned to the Probate Courts at any time the court has need for them.

"In addition," Teahen said, "the Wayne County Probate Court permits attorneys to wander in and out, taking records out of the files and doing just about anything they want.

Payment of a state bonus to all veterans serving during the Korean War was proposed in a constitutional amendment filed in the House today.

Sponsored by Rep. Peter J. Kelly D-Detroit, the measure would permit the state to borrow $100,000,000 to make bonus payments to all Michigan residents who serve in the United States armed forces during "the Korean emergency."

They, or their survivors if they died, would get $10 a month for domestic service and $15 a month for foreign service.

The maximum payment would be $500.

camps in West Germany, the Lorenz complex is excellent. Refugees themselves were put to work replacing windows in the big red brick building. Double - decker bunks were put up in the rooms, and men's and women's dormitories set up.

Food Is Good

The place is kept clean and a small hospital with a staff of nurses and two doctors checks the health of the refugees. Food is better than many of the refugees have known it since the war. The West Berliners see to it that everybody gets 2,500 calories a day. Children up to 12 receive fresh milk, butter and white bread daily. There is fruit too.

A typical lunch is herring, tea, brown bread and potatoes. Dinner, on one occasion, was boiled pork, potatoes, cabbage, brown bread and margarine.

All West Germans contribute. They pay an extra two pfennings (two-fifths of a cent) every time they mail a letter. This "emergency aid" tax is for Berlin. The United States helps too.

But the Berliners have the care, worry and the sad job of personal stewardship of those who flee. And for refugees who fear for their lives, the German government provides air transportation out of this "island city" to the safety of West Germany.

Grand Jury Indicts 12 For Alleged Shipment Of Arms Into Mexico

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Twelve men were indicted here today by a federal grand jury for alleged shipment of arms to Mexico.

The 25-page 11 count indictment charged conspiracy to violate the Neutrality Act.

Two of those indicted were Thomas D. Park and Thurman Randle, partners in the Thurman Randle & Company of Dallas, a firm which deals in arms.

They are charged with having conspired to violate the arms export provisions of the Neutrality Act, relating to the export in commercial quantities of arms, ammunition and implements of war.

Study Group Calls For New, Smaller Prison In Michigan

LANSING (AP)—The immediate construction of a new and smaller prison in Michigan was the key recommendation today of a special committee to study the Michigan Corrections Department.

Under the chairmanship of Prentiss M. Brown of Detroit, the committee launched an extensive study of the department following the April riot at Southern Michigan Prison.

It was assisted by Austin H. MacCormick of the Osborne Association, a prison consulting group.

The committee report said the construction of a model reformatory to house 1,200 to 1,500 prisoners "is the only real solution to the size, overcrowding and lack of segregation at Jackson prison, therefore Michigan can expect additional trouble at Jackson until this step is taken."

The committee's second recommendation called for additional facilities at all prisons to allow "greater emphasis upon individual treatment of prisoners including more diverse and expanded counseling work and educational programs."

The last of the committee's main recommendations was the enlargement of the four-member parole board and divorcing the board from direct control of the Corrections Commissioner.

The committee would allow the governor to make parole board appointments and would give the parole board responsibility for the administration of parole supervision over inmates who have been released.

"The need for additional facilities is pressing," the report said, "and the committee is convinced that only by meeting a primary state responsibility for the custody and rehabilitation of prisoners will the citizens of the state be saved additional costs and an even greater social problem.

"Facing up to the problem now is the cheapest route to follow."

Lincoln Pictured As Man Who Liked Laughs And Jokes

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly all, if not all, the pictures of this tall, gaunt President show an incredibly melancholy man, burdened with an almost overpowering loneliness.

Certainly nowhere in the pictures is there anything to hint that Abraham Lincoln had a laugh, as one man described it, as unrestrained as the neigh of a wild horse.

Depressed By Photos

Nor do the pictures suggest this description:

"His features were lighted, his eyes radiant, he responded to sundry remarks humorously, then dryly, and thenceforward was cordial and hearty."

Posing for pictures was a tedious process. Robert Lincoln said his father invariably lapsed into melancholy during the ordeal.

Discovery of what may be another photo of Lincoln, long unrecognized, was announced yesterday by Wayne C. Grover, archivist of the United States. The picture is a scene at Gettysburg, Pa., on the day of Lincoln's address, taken by Matthew Brady, noted Civil War photographer. Grover said one figure has tentatively been identified as Lincoln.

Had the flashbulb been around in those days, enabling alert photographers to catch each fleeting change in expression, the pictorial record—and possibly our impressions of Lincoln—might be different.

Great Story Teller

Again, maybe it is just as well the flashbulb came later.

For the truth is, we Americans don't like too much levity in our chief executives. A sense of humor, yes; but we want it well under control.

Lincoln's love of a good story brought repeated charges that he was a buffoon, a coarse comedian who laughed as men died on the battlefield.

Lincoln kept right on telling stories.

Today, on his birthday, let's sample some of his humor, picked out of Carl Sandburg's splendid biography.

Describing an orator, Lincoln said: "He can compress the most words into the smallest ideas of any man I ever met."

Again, Lincoln pictured a windbag "who mounted to the rostrum, threw back his head, shined his eyes, and left the consequences to God."

An old friend, a congressman, got this reception: "Come in here and tell me what you know. It won't take long."

Humor Relieves Tension

A woman who asked him to intercede with the War Department was told:

"It's of no use, madam, for me to go. They do things in their own way over there, and I don't amount to pig tracks in the War Department."

Lincoln's humor was a part of him, and it became an increasingly important part as the Civil War wore on.

Congressman Isaac N. Arnold once chided him for joking when the war looked bleakest. Arnold then heard something that fits in better with the photos we have of Lincoln.

"Mr. Arnold," the President cried, "if I could not get momentary respite from the crushing burden I am constantly carrying, my heart would break!"

Local Approach Best In Planning For Second Careers

Suitable housing, facilities for care of the chronically ill, financial and employment counseling services and recreation opportunities are among social needs of aging persons, Mrs. John J. Walch noted at the final meeting on Second Careers in Carnegie library Wednesday night.

Mrs. Walch, who is coordinator of the program, Harry Gruber, Dr. Roy Johnson and Mrs. Victor Powers were the speakers.

The best way to approach the problems of aging is locally, Mrs. Walch asserted. Successful integration of the individual, with resulting happiness, is dependent upon the individual but the community should provide the opportunities, she stated.

Focus of Parents

The necessity of beginning early to evaluate basic needs and the means to satisfy them, so that unnecessary hazards are avoided in later life, was again stressed last night, and problems of persons preparing for a second career were discussed.

Broad, new interests should be developed by senior citizens through learning, Mrs. Walch observed, pointing out that these persons are valuable interpreters of life for younger generations.

The focus of parents should be on preparing their children for the whole life span, not just the productive years, Mrs. Walch stated, and the education of those who work with older persons also needs to be reformulated.

The community's motto should be not to do for older persons but to provide the opportunities so they can do for themselves, Mrs. Walch emphasized. The individual's responsibility is to develop his physical, mental and spiritual health, participate in community activities, and to develop attitudes of happiness and appreciation.

Research Next Year

Harry Gruber spoke on financial needs of older persons, and outlined methods of securing them, and Dr. Roy Johnson explained activities of the Chamber of Commerce and the opportunities it offers for community service by retired persons.

The role of creative activity and education in planning and living a "second career" was discussed by Mrs. ictor Powers, who also presented information on the art classes in the Escanaba Adult Education program.

At the close of the meeting, plans for research next year on a local level, to determine the number of persons in the community over 65 and their needs were outlined by Mrs. Walch.

Helping individuals plan a second career is a community problem, in the sense that every individual in the composite community should assist in the work, the chairman stated, but not in the sense that a government unit should be responsible.

ment, sales payroll and similar taxes would be opened to the local units to permit them to take more responsibility for their own financing, Christman said.

Christman admitted he gave his plan a very slim chance in the current session. He doesn't even have the necessary bills prepared, he said.

Tax Men Probe Watered Wines

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON—I have often wondered what, aside from the olive (which I could identify), actually went into a martini.

Gin for sure and a dollop of vermouth. But what do the chemists put into the latter? This mystery, insofar as it involves the vermouth of one particular winery, now is under investigation by the House Ways and Means committee, and the longer I think about it the more am I inclined to stay with milk.

The law says that light wine of good quality may be fortified by the addition of brandy to make it potent enough to go into a martini. The man who follows the rules is allowed to draw his brandy out of bond without paying taxes on it.

But if he waters his wine to make it go further and then disguises it with sugar syrup and an extra heavy slug of cogna, he is cheating. And the penalty calls for him to pay the full tax on all the brandy he uses. This tax is so steep that it usually adds up to more than the sale price of the vermouth.

Too Much Water

So there were the federals telling the congressmen about the operations of the Tiara Products Co., of New York, producers of wines of many flavors, including the spicy vermouths. Several years ago this firm had to fork over $7,000 in tax penalties, they said, because too much tap water went into the finished product.

Then in 1950, the tax agents continued, the Tiara management left the cold-water spigot turned on too long again and came up with $33,000 in tax penalties. This the vintners bitterly denied.

Turned out their vermouth was a long, long way from the original vineyard. They bought concentrated grape juice from California, they insisted, and added only enough water to bring it back to its original form. Then they squirted in some syrup to make it sweeter and some brandy to give it a boot.

The revenuers turned the product over to their own chemists, who insisted it was too watery. All hands agreed that Tiara Products was in the soup again. All hands, that is, except Carroll Mealey, then the Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Seems that in the long ago when Mealey was a low-paid traffic safety man, he had a still-lower-paid helper named Frank Wartur. Soon after Mealey became a revenue boss, Wartur was appointed public relations man for Tiara Products at $12,000 per year.

Mealey Gets Paid

So Frank dropped down to see friend Carroll in Washington. And there was Mealey ordering all the federals along the line to change their minds about Tiara's watery guilt and accept a fee in compromise of $500. This they did.

"Why?" demanded Rep. Robert W. Kean (R-N. J.), chairman of the investigators.

"They must have thought Mr. Mealey was better informed than they were," said William M. Weimart of the Alcohol Tax Division. Rep. Kean said that pained him was the way the Bureau's experts changed their minds to order.

So John Tobin, the committee's counsel, said Tiara not only had tampered with the vermouth, but phonied the blackberry wine. The bottles were labeled blackberry wine, all right, but he said they contained a product that stemmed from the same old California grape concentrate.

Mealey resigned suddenly from the Bureau last year; he's home in Albany, N. Y., sick in bed, while still more agents examine his tax returns. And that's all I know about martinis, except for the advice of one anonymous committeeman, who said the less vermouth, whether good or bad, the better the final result. He also suggested an onion istead of an olive.

HE PREFERS ONE-HOSS SHAY — Farmer Joe Anz, who lives near Clifton, Tex., extends heartfelt thanks to merchant George Jackson, right, who saved him from the hideous fate of having to learn to operate an auto. Anz just doesn't like gas buggies. Jackson finally found a buggy maker in Lewisburg, Ind., who supplied Anz with a spanking new, $190 rig. (The farmer's first buggy finally wore out. It was only 41 years old.)

Detroiter Turns Pistol On Police

DETROIT (AP) — A 26-year-old Highland Park factory worker was captured by police last night after a running gunbattle near the American entrance to the ambassador Bridge.

The factory worker, Thomas Gillard, was wounded during the gun battle and is a police prisoner at Receiving Hospital.

Police said Gillard was held for investigation of felonious assault and kidnapping.

Gillard was hit in the back and leg during an exchange of 15 shots with police.

Police said they answered a trouble call at the bridge entrance. Bridge attendants said they were holding a man with a gun.

Gillard's wife, Beatrice, and a Mrs. Mary Jane Wadley were cowering in the bridge toll office when police arrived.

Gillard, according to police, began shooting when the scout car approached the bridge entrance.

Mrs. Gillard and Mrs. Wadley were also held for questioning as police sought to determine the events leading to the shooting.

The factory worker told police he was trying to scare Mrs. Wadley "to break up a romance between us."

However, Mrs. Wadley, the mother of two children and a co-worker at Gillard's factory, denied the alleged romance.

THE LINCOLN COUNTRY

Sketched on the Spot by Ralph Lane

NO. 7—FAREWELL TO SPRINGFIELD

Still standing on its original site is the Great Western railway station in Springfield, Ill., from which Lincoln departed to assume the presidency of the U. S. From the train, in a heavy downpour, Lincoln delivered his touching "farewell address" to his friends. He had lived in Springfield for 25 years, made many friends, rose to prominence, married, and watched his family grow. With great humility he thanked the people, for he felt he owed them everything and asked the Divine Being for guidance in the tremendous task that lay before him as chief executive.

Man And Dog Have Ride Of Their Lives

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Wallace Watkins, 75, and his dog had the ride of their lives yesterday.

Watkins' brakes failed and his automobile started coasting down Lake Avenue. Three miles later he crashed through a plate glass window into a drugstore, knocking prescription bottles onto the head of pharmacist Larry Gordon, 50.

Gordon was treated for shock. Watkins and his dog were unscathed.

Union Favors $20,000 Salary For Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Federation of Government Employes (AFL) today advocated a pay increase for members of Congress to $20,000 a year.

The senators and representatives now receive $12,500 and a $2,500 expense account.

The government employes' union also went on record, through its National Executive Council, in favor of pay increases for legislative staffs of Congress.

A report by the council said that because of increased taxes members of Congress "are actually working for less take-home pay than did the members of the 64th Congress who received salaries of $7,500 per annum." The 64th Congress met in 1915.

Freighter With Split Hull Limps To Port

BODO, Norway, (AP)—The American freighter Mormacmar limped through coastal gales into this North Norwegian harbor early today and the harbor pilot said later he doubted the small shipyard here could repair the crack in her hull.

The pilot said the 8,000 - ton freighter had a split the width of a finger from her deck to the waterline just forward of the bridge.

The Mormacmar reported herself in trouble 30 miles off the Norwegian coast Monday night but later her captain refused offers of aid.

HEATER STRIKES BACK

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —A 74-year-old woman was taken to General Hospital for treatment of severe burns recently after she backed into a gas heater in her home.

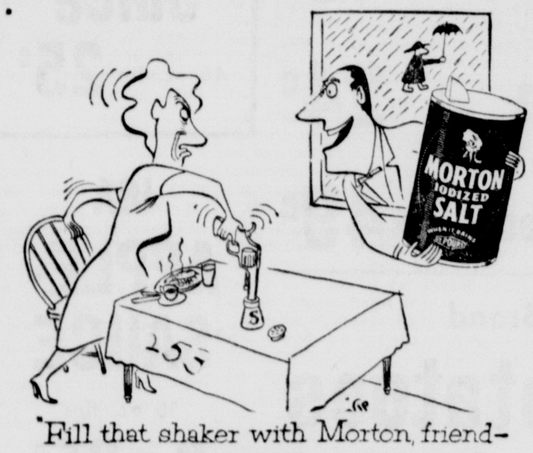

Police said the woman attempted to smother the flames with bed clothes which also burst into flame. Her son heard her screams and succeeded in beating out the blaze.

Governor Must Balance Budget

LANSING (AP) — The governor must give the Legislature a "balanced" budget, a legal opinion held Wednesday.

Senator Charles T. Prescott (R-Prescott), and Attorney General Frank G. Millard dealt the Williams administration a sharp blow with the legal opinion holding the administration must submit to the Legislature a budget providing for no more expenditures than there are current revenues to cover.

Prescott has been waging a fight with Williams' State Department of Administration for several years on the subject and today obtained an opinion from Millard supporting him.

The opinion implied that the Legislature may reject the entire budget and demand a new one.

Millard conceded that such a balanced budget may require a "drastic" reduction of funds for essential services but he said "the Legislature is entitled to have presented to it a state budget which reveals clearly the extent to which state government may render service within the present existing sources of state revenue in order to properly gauge the additional amount which may be needed to expand such services to the extent which the Legislature might deem proper."

Vandenberg Portrait To Hang In Capitol

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The committee in charge of placing a portrait of the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg in the State Capitol in Lansing needs only $200 more before commissioning the painting.

C. Dewey Allen, chairman, said $2,800 of the $3,000 sought has been contributed by Western Michigan residents in donations averaging $7 each.

Alfred Jonniaux of Boston will paint the portrait from photographs as soon as the rest of the money is raised, Allen said.

Names of each contributor will be inscribed on the back of the picture.

Intangibles Tax Will Be Revised

LANSING (AP) —The 1952 state law assessing intangibles taxes against stocks in national banks is due for a revision by this year's Legislature because of doubts of its constitutionality.

Senator Harry F. Hittle (R-East Lansing) filed a bill today to remove those doubts.

He said his bill would impose a specific tax of 5½ mills on the state banks, computed on stock-units of capital, surplus and undivided profits.

The present law imposed a four per cent tax on bank stocks in lieu of all other state corporation privilage and franchise taxes.

Hittle said some national banks have refused to pay the 1952 tax on the grounds that it conflicts with federal banking laws, fearing that their boards of directors will be subject to personal suit if they have paid improperly.

Dillman Named Head Of College Presidents

EAST LANSING (AP) — Grover C. Dillman, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton, was named yesterday as the chairman of the Michigan Council of State College Presidents.

The council represents the 10 Michigan colleges which are supported by state funds. Its primary function is as a lobbying group to meet with the Legislature on money matters.

Dillman succeeds Michigan State College President John A. Hannah, on leave of absence as a U. S. Defense Department assistant.

Duty-Free Copper Measure Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) —Copper will enter the United States duty-free for 16 more months, if President Eisenhower approves.

A bill providing for the continued suspension of tariff duties went to him for signature yesterday, after the Senate completed legislative action on it.

It waives the 2 cents a pound tariff unless the price of domestic copper falls below 24 cents a pound, or the President proclaims the Korean emergency ended.

College Skier Breaks The Same Arm Twice

PETOSKEY (AP)—Kent C. Dickerman Jr., a Western Michigan College student, left Little Traverse Hospital today with the hope, shared by doctors, his broken arm wouldn't have to be set a third time.

Dickerman, 22, from Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., fractured his arm while skiing Saturday at Boyne Mountain. Doctors here fixed him up and applied a cast.

As Dickerman started for a telephone to inform his parents of the mishap he collapsed and fell, fracturing the arm again in the same place.

Doctors did their work over and this time put the patient to bed with a promise he could leave today if he was careful.

Weak Spots Showing In Nation's Economy

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) —The economy appears so strong at the moment that an increasing number of businessmen—worriers by nature— are paying more attention than usual to the weak spots beginning to show.

They figure that the economy is neatly balanced on a high fence. And they wonder which way the cat is going to jump.

Commodity price weakness—and declining farm income —attract most attention right now. Farmers had less money to spend in 1952 than they did in 1951. And prospects are for more of the same this year. Businessmen who sell to farmers are worried.

And many who don't are also beginning to ask: If farmers spend less, will this trend be catching—say, among industrial workers?

Another spot of potential weakness, in the view of many financial leaders, is the record high level of private and public debt. The present prosperity supports it comfortably. But what will happen in a slump?

Prospects of much sharper competition also are being watched by many industries. Auto sales forces, for instance, are being alerted to the coming fight to get the consumer's dollar.

The buyers' market in many lines will become a hard fact by the end of the year, warns Howard L. Franks, manager of Sales Personnel and Control for the Chemical Division of General Electric. He tells the marketing conference here of the American Management must start now cutting costs of effective selling—or lose out in the coming race.

Silver Has Wide Use In The World

NEW YORK (AP) — The world used 251,300,000 ounces of sliver in 1952, reports the 37th annual Handy & Harman silver market review.

Silver is now being used in brazing alloys, where it provides a fast inexpensive method of bonding metals. It also is being widely used throughout the chemical and electronic industries.

Of last year's consumption, 95 million ounces represented United States use in the arts and industries.

Brazilian City Will Celebrate

SAO Paulo, Brazil (AP)—This city, Brazil's chief industrail center, is planning a mammoth celebration in 1954 in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of its founding.

The festivities will get underway at midnight, Dec. 31, 1953, with the running of the Sao Silvestre marathon. Some show, festivity or competition is scheduled for almost every week of the year that follows. The biggest splurge will come on Jan. 25, when a huge parade is planned.

NO BEEF ABOUT STEAK PRICES — Joe Rumman, Dayton, Ohio, butcher, right, isn't beefing about business, and his customers are mooing contentedly about prices. Joe bought a load of imported beef, and sold out the first day. Average price of a cut was 34 cents a pound, and T-bone steaks were selling for 39 cents.

Long Name May Help Young Army Draftee

CHICOPEE, Mass. (AP)—A young student leaving for induction Friday may get out of some unpleasant Army chores for what may be the reluctance of first sergeants to call out his name.

He is Lambros A. Pappatoriantafillospoulous.

However, word may get around before he is long in the Army that he'd answer if called Pappas or even Mr. Alphabet. He said his friends sometimes call him one or the other of those names.

The light of a candle 40,000 miles away could be picked up by the Palomar telescope, near San Diego, Calif.

Seney

SENEY—Word was received here of the death of Mrs. Ann Washell of Wayne, Mich., a sister of Mrs. Bert Furst, and at one time owner of the Seney Hotel. She is survived by one daughter and ten brothers and sisters.

Ernie Johnson and daughter Judy of Michigamme visited at the Tovey home during the weekend.

A total of $71.60 has been collected in the polio fund drive.

Mrs. Dick Brawley and daughter accompanied her aunt, Mrs. Thurman Skarritt, to Walled Lake this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Riordan of Detroit visited here over the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Riordan. They were accompanied home by their son, Jackie, who has been visiting here with his grandparents.

Miss Garnet Boggs has returned to her nursing duties at Racine, Wis., after visiting her parents.

Miss Irma Saven gave a lesson on lamp shades to home extension leaders of Seney and Germfask at the Seney town hall.

Path Of A Bee Isn't All Honey

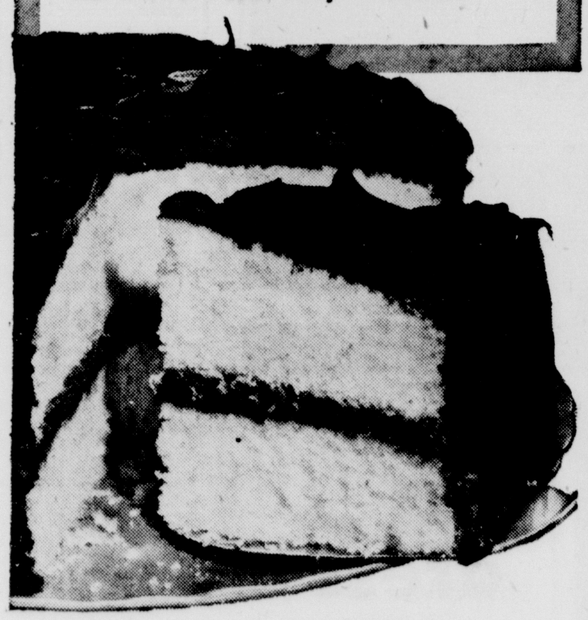

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) —Bandit bees usually are characterized by baldness, says entomologists at the University of California college of agriculture.

When the bandit bee attempts to steal honey from hives of other bees, she is attacked by guard bees who usually pick the hair off the thief's body before she can escape. Frequently a robber bee learns that stealing doesn't pay and returns to the righteous path of gathering her own honey, the entomologists report.

Four Speakers On C-C Program

Four speakers graced the program at the dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening at the Lincoln Hotel.

Einar Beck, Escanaba, personnel director of the Escanaba Paper Co., traced the history of the firm in brief but interesting manner. He said that at present the company employes 525 employes and that in 1952 the payroll was $2,046,000. Of the total 66 live in Gladstone proper and another 107 have Route 1, Gladstone, addresses. Fully half of the 107 are within the Gladstone trading area, he declared.

In addition to the employe payroll, the company last winter bought over thirty thousand cords of pulpwood locally for which they paid over a quarter of a million dollars.

Touching on the firm's products he said they produced a coated paper used by Time and Life magazine and also a white bond some of which is used for the outer wrapper on a nationally advertised cigarette.

He said the Mead company had the finest retirement plan in the country today and an excellent insurance program and fine wage structure.

Electric Survey

Wynand Nieuwenkamp, manager of the Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric Association, presented a comprehensive picture of the electric problem which faces the Cities of Gladstone and Escanaba and also the electric cooperative firm which he manages.

He told of the prospective plans to construct a generating plant here and of a trip to Washington in an effort to arrange a loan; of a survey made later to determine the possible future loads of the area and of the check now being made by REA specialists from Washington.

He said the REA is primarily and purely a banking or loaning agency which lends money to cooperatives or individuals for purposes of promoting rural electrification.

He said it was proposed to built a genrating plant which would care for future expansion of loads of the cooperative and until the co-operative needed the entire output the surplus could be sold to the cities of Escanaba and Gladstone.

Burton on Bridge

Charles Burton, local realtor, who is highly interested in bridging of the Straits of Mackinac, told of plans for the project and that a firm is already to start financing the venture when all legal entanglements have been cared for.

He gave technical details of the structure and said while it wouldn't have the longest span of any bridge, it would be the "greatest bridge project ever undertaken in the world."

He said the country's leading bridge engineers have made a preliminary survey and have declared the bridge feasible.

It is estimated that by charging for autos at the same rate as do straits ferries that the cost of the structure could be amortized in 20 years.

Burton said he was confident it would be a great "tourist magnet" and would result in bringing the two peninsulas closer together.

Brewer Talks Hospital

H. T. Brewer, chairman of the Gladstone Hospital committee, reviewed efforts made here to obtain construction of a hospital and said that he had been advised that $250,000 in federal aid is waiting if this city will form a hospital authority and make plans to go ahead with construction of a facility here.

He said that he had spoken at Rock recently and had been assured support there and that he was to talk at Perkins tonight. The money is available and will be spent in Michigan whether here or some other place else, he said.

Assistance in promoting the plan within the city of Gladstone was one of the big needs at the present time, Brewer said.

Proposed Conservation Legislation Is Outlined To Sportsmen's Group

Proposed conservation legislation, outlined by a group of regional and district conservation department officials, was discussed at length by members and officials of the Schoolcraft County Sportsmen's Club at a meeting at the Manistique Heights Club building Tuesday evening.

The meeting here was one of eight being held at points in the Upper Peninsula. Meetings have been held at Iron Mountain, Iron River, Mass City, Lake Linden, L'Anse and Newberry and the final session was scheduled for Negaunee last night.

Varying opinions were expressed by sports club members but no definite action for or against any of the proposed measures was taken. There will be further discussion at future meetings and club officials will make known the organization's attitude to representatives in Lansing.

New Bills Listed

Bills outlined by the visiting conservation department representatives would:

Increase all fish and game license fees and provide for a rod license for Great Lakes fishermen; remove the bounty from foxes, wolves and coyotes; change the method of determining legal whitefish by length instead of weight; permit discharged veterans to procure free fishing and hunting licenses; increase the fees paid to dealers handling licenses; open the deer season on the Saturday prior to November 15; permit hunters only one deer or bear a year and require that they attacn their back tag as well as the seal.

Cut the archery season on deer to two weeks move it to Sept. 15-Oct. 1 instead of October 1 to Nov. 5 and make it illegal to carry firearms during the bow and arrow season; provide for retention of mineral rights on property in cases where taxes on surface rights are not paid; allow supervisors and sheriffs to regulate operation of motorboats on waters under their jurisdiction; take the state police out of enforcement of the Christmas tree law; extend the temporary fish license from 10 to 15 days; require registration of foresters and encourage mineral exploration.

Oppose Dropping Bounty

The majority of the club members present expressed opposition to the proposed removal of the bounty on foxes, wolves and coyote. Dorais Curry, of Marquette, regional supervisor, spearheaded the discussion on behalf of the conservation department. He said it is the opinion of most department officials that the bounty money spent in the past 18 years has been wasted and that predator populations have increased during that period. David Arnold, of Lansing, biologist working on predator control, declared that the conservation department has thus far been unable to relate game numbers with predator numbers. He cited the fact that pheasant populations rise and fall in areas where there are few if any foxes.

Herbert Lennon, of Doyle township, and Merwin White, of Manistique, both furnished statistics to back up their contention that predator control should be continued. Both urged that the bounty system be retained and that bounty payments be increased. Both cited the experiences of several other states where the bounty system has proven successful.

Officials Present

Members of the conservation department's regional and Newberry district staffs present at the meeting were: Dorais Curry, regional chief; Bernard Stephansky, regional filed administration supervisor; James Scully, regional fisheries supervisor; Don Zettle, regional forester; Paul Challancin, regional educational supervisor; Otto DeWaard, district game supervisor; Leland Anderson, district fisheries supervisor, and David Arnold, of the game division, who represented Max Wakeman, regional game supervisor, who was unable to attend the meeting.

Also present at the meeting were local conservation officers and forestry department personnel.

Harry Truman's Hat Goes To A Museum

ROME, N. Y. (AP)—One of former President Harry Truman's hats will occupy a niche in the proposed colonial museum on the Oriskany Battlefield site.

When Truman was whistle-stopping here last fall he was presented a brown derby, emblamatic of the late Gov. Alfred E. Smith, by Edward Seelig who asked Truman for one of his hats for the museum.

Inside the hat, which came by registered mail, was the notation, "Made expressly for Harry S. Truman."

Theater TV Is Growing Popular

NEW YORK (AP)—It is estimated that about 100 theaters in all parts of the country have installed projection equipment for theater television. Linked together by network just like tele-broadcast stations, the theaters present sports and other spectacles to a paying audience.

Two processes are use, one direct from a special picture tube and the other through a filmed process that takes a picture off the tube, develops it at high speed and then puts it through a movie-type projector.

Man Who Took Pencil Mails Money For It

DES MOINES (AP) — E. E. Edwards' eyes popped when he opened a letter he received recently at his filling station.

The letter, postmarked at Vici, Okla., said the writer had inadvertently carried off a pencil belonging to Edwards when he was in Des Moines last summer. "I didn't give it much thought, but must pay for it because it isn't mine," the letter said.

Enclosed in the letter was one nickel.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

FIRST PERIOD ACTION — The Escanaba Hawks tighten their defenses in first period action here last night against the Marquette Sentinels. Playing before a near capacity crowd the Hawks downed the Sentinels 8-7 in free-scoring game for their first victory over Marquette on Escanaba ice this season. The Hawks, who are at Calumet in Northern Michigan Hockey League action Saturday night, got off to a 3-1 lead over the Sentinels and applied the pressure all the way to take the verdict. (Daily Press Photo)

Hawks Hand Marquette 8-7 Defeat Before 1,200 Fans

Playing alert, aggressive offensive hockey and displaying a sharper and tighter defense, the Escanaba Hawks defeated the Marquette Sentinels, 8-7, before 1,200 excited fans at the fairgrounds rink here last night.

The renewal of what possibly is the most heated rivalry in the Northern Michigan league saw the hustling Hawks make it two in a row over the visitors. Before 2,200 fans in Marquette last week, Escanaba downed the Sentinels by a 6-3 count.

But last night's clash is the one they'll be talking about around here for a long time to come. The Hawks hustled as never before and were never sharper as they bore down on Goalie Jim DeMarinis repeatedly to take a 3-1 lead by the end of the first period and a 6-3 lead going into the finale.

Look At The Saves

The picture of the Hawks' sparkling offensive play and effective teamwork is seen in the official scorer's record of saves. The youthful Marquette goaler made 19 stops in the first period, 22 in the second and 11 in the third for a grand total of 52. Ben Artwich, Escanaba goalie, had 38 stops in all.

With the Hawks holding the offensive edge, "Big Ben" was called upon to make only eight stops in the first period, but he was kept plenty busy in the middle and final sessions as Marquette pressed hard in an effort to stem the Escanaba tide. He blocked 15 Marquette shots in the second and 15 more in a rip-roaring high-scoring third period.

With Jim Eady, Roy Olson, Johnny Vasseau and Cud VanOverloop staging four-man rushes and with the Sentinels sometimes sending five men up, Marquette came back strong in the final 20 minutes of play and all but pulled the game out of fire.

Nine Players Score

Escanaba's three-goal lead at the outset of the finale was reduced to a solitary goal twice. In fact, there were many aroused fans who thought the hard skating Sentinels were going to snatch victory from defeat after trailing all the way as they did here three weeks ago. On that occasion, Escanaba led 4-3 with six minutes to go and lost the game by 6-4.

But except for a couple of defensive lapses in the hectic third period when Roy Olson scored on a breakway sleeper play at 10:50 and Eady slipped behind the defense and took a pass from VanOverloop and scored at 15:26, the Hawks did a fine job of protecting their lead. Marc Olson's deflected goal on Hubert Hamilton's long angle shot at 17:38 put the Hawks back into a two-goal lead where they stayed until Vasseau hit his hat trick goal 30 seconds before the final siren to close the gap to 8-7.

The free scoring game struck the crowd's fancy. Nine players, five Escanabans and four Sentinels, participated in the scoring. Coach Mark Olson matched Vasseau's hat trick and had a pair of assists. Joe Ricci collected two goals and two assists, his best showing thus far, and Jim Ogle, Hamilton and Buddy Provo each got one.

Hawk Production Line

For Marquette, it was the old reliables—Vasseau with a trio, Roy Olson two and VanOverloop and Eady one each. In addition, Vasseau and VanOverloop each got two assists.

Coach Mark Olson shuffled his lineup some to meet Marquette's recognized power and the strategy paid off. He worked on a production line with Ricci and Ogle that really produced.

This line manufactured three goals for a 3-0 lead in the first 16 minutes of play—the edge that enabled the Hawks to keep on top all the way. Oddly enough, each member of this trio scored one goal and one assist in that splurge. Ricci banged one in at 3:47, Olson at 11:26 and Ogle at 16:05. That set the pace.

All three goals were scored right at the mouth of the net—a tribute in itself to the effective teamwork displayed by the Hawks.

Two Misconducts Called

Len Webster worked effectively on a fast skating, hard back checking line with Provo and Dave Serbinski. Back checking defensive play was a big factor in the Escanaba win.

Twelve penalties were called, six on each team. Two of Escanaba's penalties were misconducts, one against Clarence Matt for throwing his stick on the ice after being tabbed for a minor and one against Mark Olson for forcibly inquiring as to the nature of Matt's penalty.

The game was delayed eight minutes while this argument was going on but once play was resumed, Officials Bel Bertrand and Fred Brunelle kept things under control.

Brunelle had his moments with the spectators, once chasing a snowball throwing youngster outside the building, but all in all, it was a rip-roaring fast hockey game with no casualties—a welcome contrast to the bloody previous clash between the rivals in Marquette.

Michigan goalie Willard Ikola stopped 20 shots to fashion his second shutout of the season.

Forty-year-old Tosper Keene also died in Receiving Hospital after suffering an attack near the end of the championship bout.

Frank Groessle, 62, was stricken while watching the fight on a T-V set at the Fort Shelby Hotel during a bowling banquet.

Tiger Farmhands Are Signed To Contracts

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers announced Tuesday Pitcher Milt Jordan and Outfielder Don Lund have signed their 1953 contracts. Both played for the Tigers' Buffalo farm club last year.

With the opening of spring training in Lakeland, Fla., only 10 days away, the Tigers now have 25 players under contract, with 10 still unsigned.

Batterymen report Feb. 22 and the full squad on March 1.

Jordan, a 24-year-old righthander, had a 12-9 record with Buffalo last year. Lund hit .302 for Buffalo in 138 games and registered .304 for the Tigers in eight games late in the season.

During 1952 a total of 11,927 harness horses raced for a record $16,050,566.

Beaten Chuck Davey To Keep On Fighting

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Davey today is just another welterweight. One of the greastest build-ups in boxing history has come to an end. The television darling — the All-American boy who charged out in college sheepskin to slay the dragon — has fallen.

Champion Kid Gavilan clipped his wings Wednesday night in Chicago Stadium. Three times Davey was knocked down in the ninth round. The last time he was banged halfway through the ropes and nearly onto the floor.

Then came the bell. Trainer Issy Kline rushed out into the ring whipping water into Davey's reddened face from a wet sponge. Manager Hec Knowles helped him sit down in the corner.

Couldn't Make It

Both worked on him feverishly. Dr. Irving Slott of the Illinois Athletic Commission looked at him. It was time for the 10th. Kline looked over his shoulder and waved his arm. It was all over. They wouldn't let Davey back in against the Cuba kid.

But Davey gave it the old college try. He also escaped with his life to fight another day. He isn't going to quit.

"We nearly had to sit on him to keep him from going out in the 10th," said Knowles in Davey's dressing room afterwards. "Chuck had the flu for four days about a week ago. He had a hard time breathing. This isn't alibing — just a fact. You don't alibi when you fight such a fine champion as Gavilan."

Chuck tried to talk. It was hard for him to get the words out.

"I was hit in the throat near the end of the eighth round and it gagged me," he mumbled. I'll continue to fight, and I hope eventually to get another chance with Gavilan. He's a great champion."

"Chuck was hit in the adam's apple and couldn't breath in the ninth," added Knowles. "In fact it was hard for him to breath through his nose the whole fight."

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, indicated Davey would meet the winner of the Vince Martinez-Chico Vejar bout slated March 13 in Madison Square Garden. Martinez, a two-fisted slugger, was voted the rookie boxer of 1952. Vejar twice has been beaten by Davey.

"All I want to do now is rest — maybe two or three months," said Davey. "I'm going to Florida with my wife."

Gavilan, who now wants to shoot for the middleweight crown, was asked what Davey had.

"Davey Can't Punch

"Nothing," replied the champion. "Heem pretty good keed but heem needs experience. Heem can't punch. Never hurt me anytime. Theese was just another fight. I know I have heem after I knock him down in the third."

Asked why he switched to a southpaw style in the fifth and part of the sixth, Gavilan grinned: "I deed it just for fun of eet. I wanted to show Meester Davey I pretty good southpooie also."

Davey later admitted Gavilan's switch was troublesome although not unexpected.

Davey looked tired and weary after losing his first pro fight in 40 starts. His pretty bride of three months, Pat, left the ringside and watched the last three rounds on television in a private office at the stadium.

When Chuck finally trudged in from the dressing room, she planted a kiss on his cheek and was heard to say: "Darling, let's go home."

Gavilan Scores TKO Over Davey In 10th

By JERRY LISKA

The Davey invincibility myth was exploded last night by a 10th-round technical knockout in Chicago Stadium.

A crowd of 17,450 paid a record welter bout gross gate of $275,454.

It's now middleweights for me," said the jaunty Gavilan, unmarked after his triumph. "I want to take on Turpin or Olson. Either one after this tournament business."

He was referring to the elimination tourney proposed to screen some 11 contenders for Sugar Ray Robinson's vacated 160-pound title.

Wants Championship

"Let Turpin or Olson find out who is champion and then I fight that guy," said Gavilan, who already has licked five of the middleweights trying to eblow into the title picture.

Before Davey, gasping desperately for breath on his stool was unable to come out for the 10th round, Gavilan had felled him four times—once in the third and three times in the brutal ninth.

Gavilan weighed 146½, Davey 147.

This match—or mis - match as ring experts contended since it first was announced—was a cruel awakening to the legions of TV fans mesmerized by Davey's cute southpaw style, which had riddled two washed-up ex-champions, Ike Williams and Rocky Graziano.

And yet, on points, Davey was making a battle of it. This was because Gavilan let the blond gamester get off the hook in the third round and then fooled around by switching southpaw himself in the fifth and part of the sixth round.

Gavilan conceded after the fight that he knew he could put Davey away any time after the third. Even fighting as a left - hander, Gavilan was accorded no worse than a draw in the fifth and sixth and one official even gave him both rounds. But the maneuver underscored the fact the Kid was not rushing a knockout.

It was Davey's trainer, Issy Kline, who prevented Chuck from staggering out for the 10th round, as Davey wanted to do.

"I had the doctor (Irving Slott of the Illinois Athletic Commission) look at Chuck," said Kline. "He was gasping for breath from a punch to the Adam's apple. He suggested we call it quits. I'd have done it anyway. If Davey went out for that 10th, he'd have been killed."

Opens Cut

The beginning of the end came in the eighth when Gavilan opened a gash on Davey's right cheekbone. Davey came out fighting in the ninth. He started exchanging punches with the Kid and thereby signed his own death warrant.

A jolting right floored Davey in the middle of the ring. The birdies still were singing when Chuck arose at a nine count. Bang! Gavilan smashed a left hook that floored him again for nine.

Gavilan moved in for the kill. His right-hand punches blurred in a tatoo on the groggy Davey's head and sent him reeling through the ropes and nearly completely out of the ring. He sprawled on the ring apron and might have slipped off except surprised photographers held up their arms for protection and steadied Davey for the instant he needed to regain balance.

Gets To Feet

Davey had staggered to his feet at the count of nine just before the bell ended the round. It was obvious that between-rounds ministrations would be of little or no help.

The fight was far from in the bag when Gavilan turned loose his dynamite. Referee Frank Gilmer had it 49 to 41 for Gavilan with the Kid winning only the third, eighth and ninth and four rounds even.

Judge Ed Hintz had Gavilan in front 52 to 38, winning the third, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth with three even. The other judge, John Bray, made it 51 to 39 for Gavilan with the Kid taking the third and from the fifth through the ninth with the first even.

Gavilan collected approximately $85,000 for his 40 per cent slice of the announced net gate of $211,415. Davey got 20 per cent, or about $42,500.

There was considerable mystery about the TV payoff on the fight. The sponsor had guaranteed a $200,000 net gate and was announced as home clear. There were other reports the sponsor had to kick in from $50,000 to $100,000, but these were denied by the International Boxing Club.

Michigan State Campus Drips In Gloom Today

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP) —The Michigan State College campus dripped with deep and dismal mourning today.

MSC rooters had dreams of another champion to complement the top-rated Spartan football team. But then they saw Chuck Davey four times an NCAA champion of Michigan State, go down for his third time and lose on a TKO any chance of winning the welterweight crown to Kid Gavilan.

"I'm all for him anyway," said Football Coach Biggie Munn, who watched the fight at home on television.

That was the sentiment of the entire campus.

"Gavilan is a terrific puncher," Munn said.

"He got Davey on the run and then kept after him, but Davey has a lot of guts. I cheered each time I saw him crawl to his feet after being knocked down."

A crowd of about 250 students, largest of the campus, watched the fight on television in the lounge of the Student Union building.

There was no booing of the decision to stop the fight. Students accepted the decision and appeared glad the fight wouldn't go on, and Davey would not get hurt.

The students filed out slowly, stunned, and campus police, who had been alerted to expect some uproarous demonstration relaxed and started looking for petters.

Elsewhere, the students watched the fight on television sets in the dormitories and fraternity houses.

Dr. John A. Hannah, Michigan State's sportsminded president, left Wednesday for his Washington defense post. But before he left wrote Davey a letter wishing him luck and promising to watch the fight on television.

The students, in a one-day drive Tuesday, collected more than 6,000 signatures on a good luck letter 240 feet long.

The letter promised "win or lose or draw we'll always be with you."

That was still the feeling at Michigan State today.

"What's up, Mac? What're they doing?"

It happens to everybody. You. You walk down the street, see a crowd, join it, and watch some strange goings-on. Then you tap somebody on the shoulder and ask what's up—even though you can see what's up with your own eyes.

Chances are that he doesn't know what's going on any more than you do. Chances are he'll have to get a newspaper to find out —just as you will.

Then, for the first time, you'll discover that the firemen on the ladder were trying to reach a young man who had escaped from the police and climbed a pole.

It's great to be on the spot at a football game . . . or political gathering . . . or hear and see any burst of excitement. It stimulates your appetite for the whole story.

But being on the spot is not much better than seeing one or two photographs of the action, or seeing a headline about it.

All of these can whet your appetite for news, but they cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story.

• This goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air . . . or brief headlines here or there . . . may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

Like a news item, the ad can be examined and re-examined. Can be read any time. Anywhere. Can be clipped and carried in a pocketbook.

And just as the newspaper speaks the special language of the town it mirrors, the ads themselves have the same important local quality. No other medium can match this quality.

Add to all this the fact that the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town, not just fractions of audiences, and you know why the newspaper is the nation's most effective advertising medium.

No wonder advertisers—both retail and national—invest more money in newspapers than in any other form of advertising.

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

Marriage Requires A Mutual Stability And Love For Success

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.

Few young people are willing to accept the judgements of their parents when those they love are effected. That is the problem facing the 17-year-old girl who writes:

(Q) "I am very much in love with a man of 24 but my parents do not approve of him because he drinks a lot. They want me to marry another boy they approve and so I became engaged to him. Just recently, I returned his ring and have been seeing the man I love secretly. He is in the service but will be out in several months. Then he wants to marry me. I would hate very much to hurt my parents by marrying a fellow they don't approve and I would like them to understand that I love this man very much. How can I make all of us happy?"

(A) In a matter of this sort, your youth and inexperience are blinding you to what is in store for you if you marry the young man who drinks. Your parents know better than you what sort of life a wife of a drunkard has and they are trying to save you from it.

No matter how much you may love him, don't go ahead with your plans to marry him when he gets out of the service. You are still very young for the responsibilities of marriage, especially when you will have an extra problem to cope with.

Let him get himself established in business and watch how much he drinks after he is out of the service. If he is sincerely anxious to marry you, he may settle down and stop drinking.

As for the other boy, you were wise to break your engagement to him. He may be the right kind of person for you in every way but if you do not love him or if you are in love with someone else you would be unfair to him and to yourself to go ahead with your parents' desire for your marriage with him. Several years from now, you will see your present problem in a clearer light and you will be very glad that you waited before making a final decision.

One of the most successful and attractive events of the club year was the Silver Jubilee luncheon held yesterday afternoon at the Delta Hotel by members of the Woman's Club of the Chicago & North Western Railway and their guests, visiting officers and associate members of other clubs of the system.

The speakers' table at the luncheon was centered with 25 tapers cradled in a nest of fibre glass and silver balls with two madonna vases of white carnations sprinkled with silver stars. The combination place cards, tallies and corsages were silver booklets fastened with silver bows and bells continuing the theme of the occasion.

Centering this table was a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers, the gift of the Chicago & North Western Veterans' Association, which later was taken to the home of Mrs. C. R. Henderson, a past president, who is seriously ill, and presented to her.

A colorful feature of the party was calling of the meeting to order by the ringing of a large silver engine bell.
